DEFUNCT BANK CASE REVIVED IN COURT

Alexandria Tribunal Hears Arguments on Rule Against E. L. Kidd.

THE HERALD BUREAU, R. E. Knight & Som 621-623 King Stre

Alexandria, Va., Oct. 26.-In the Corporation Court today Judge L. C. Barley heard arguments on the rule issued against E. L. Kidd for receiving money amounting to $2,193.33 from R. Lee Camden, cashler of the Lovington branch. Neison County, Va. of the defunct Vir-ginia Deposit and Trust Corporation, al-leged to have been received by him after the bank had gone into the hands of a receiver on December 29, 1910. Judge Barley took the matter under advisement. The money was on deposit in the bank in the name of Mrs. F. H. Kidd.

On June 10, 1911, a bill for the recovery of the money was filed in the Corporation Court and the court the following month ruled that it would have to be paid to the receivers with interest from December 29, 1910.

In the Corporation Court tomorrow morning another echo of the failure of the Virginia Safe Deposit and Trust Corporation will come for hearing before Judge R. H. L. Chichester, of Stafford County, Va., in the suit of Howard W. Smith, receiver, against C. Jones Rixey and others. It is stated that this suit involves the liability of J. K. M. Norton, who at one time was a director in this concern.
